To that end, they should use the "Sistema de Registro de Cuadernos ATA" (ATA Carnet Registration System) available on CANACO's website:

Mexican Customs imposes a penalty on holders who do not re-export their goods within the six-month period granted for temporary admission.

Depending on the case, a fine ranging from $2,670.00 to $4,030.00 MXN will be applied if the return is verified spontaneously, for each fifteen-day period or fraction thereof that elapses from the expiration date until the return is effected. The amount of the fine shall not exceed the value of the goods.

To avoid such a penalty, the holder (or representative) must request an extension of the six-month period from CANACO two months before the deadline.
